Glendale Advancement Association Broadens
Scope by Dropping the Word "East" and Now Taking in All Sections

Of the many big things which the East Glendale Advancement association has done or attempted to do, none has been bigger in spirit than the action taken at the meeting on Thursday when, responding to a challenge made by W. L. Twining, who was present with Mrs. Twining, ready to join the association and work with it, a motion made by Councilman Kimlin and seconded by Mrs. Kimlin, endorsed by Charles Stanley and Dr. Stuart, unanimously passed to drop from the name of the association the word "East," leaving it Glendale Advancement association, and forgetting all sectional differences.

At this time P. L. Hatch, president of the Glendale Electric line and V. Haresnape, secretary of the company, were present for the president, Mr. Twining, and for the secretary, Mr. Kimlin. Mr. Hatch, who had responded to the information relative to the electric line, said that the electric line project, when Mr. Twining reluctantly agreed to give up another transportation line between the city and Glendale, why do we sit waiting here like a lot of dummies? "Our Scottish friend has opened his heart and we have made a compromise. The thing is that it stands now is so satisfactory to us that we are going to spend our own money advertising the road from this on. These fellows who perhaps are selling to the P. E. before we know it, but if they do, the P. E. will have to abide by this rate schedule.

"The P. E. put the greatest kibosh on this town when they increased the fares and it hurt our business. I will be glad to serve on that committee and do all I can to raise that money."

President Ingledue then added Mr. Twining and Mr. Finley to the transportation committee of which John Lampert is chairman, an committee meeting was set for the same afternoon.

Messrs. Kinch, Hays, Brown, Mercer and Mrs. Tigh, were appointed to attend the city council Thursday evening and represent the association in the matter of the opening of West Broadway, which was expected to come up for discussion.

Charles Stanley as chairman of the postoffice committee reported the submission to Postmaster D. Ripley Jackson of the two sites for a branch office, reported at the last meeting, and also an additional site adjoining Brown's feed store on Glendale avenue, owned by Geo. E. Caldwell, who is willing to build to suit the department.

On behalf of the hotel committee, Mrs. Mabel Tigh, chairman, reported work on the escrow proceeding as rapidly as possible and said that in order to facilitate the securing of a permit from the corporation commissioner, she and Dr. Russell had Thursday morning visited Governor Stephens, who is a personal friend of the commissioner, and asked him to use his influence to get the matter through without delay, and this he cordially agreed to do.

Dr. Russell announced a special meeting of the Federated Improvement associations Friday evening at the chamber of commerce at 7:30, and invited President Ingledue and two delegates to attend.

The association also voted to accept with thanks the invitation of the Exchange club to join it in a picnic at Glendale-Verdugo park, September 9.

Covers were laid for 40 and the meeting was of intense interest to all present.

At a subsequent meeting of the transportation committee, the Glendale Advancement association, Thursday, a large number of canvassers were appointed to cover various territories in an effort to raise the balance of the $25,000 for the electrification of the avenue. This meeting was held at 2:30. The committee includes J. P. Lampert, chairman, Herman Nelson, C. W. Ingledue, C. J. Hays, James Perch, H. R. Harrower, Mabel L. Tigh, W. E. Mercer, E. Stanley, J. F. McClish, W. L. Twining and H. L. Finley.

Those appointed to canvass, and their respective territories, are: Mrs. R. G. Addison, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Addison, Cedar and Belmont from Harvard to Lexington; A. Ambrosini, Jackson and Isabel from Harvard to Wilson; Mrs. Brewer, Everett from Broadway to Colorado; George Whitaker, North and South Kenwood; R. M. Brown, Franklin court; C. E. Stanley, Everett and Dayton court; T. J. Fambrough, North Orange street; Peter L. Feiry, East Acacia avenue; Charles A. Fisher, East Broadway; Roger P. Filz, Central avenue between Colorado and Doran; Mrs. Harriet Fox Frank, East Wilson avenue from Adams; Guy S. Gibbs, East Broadway; Dr. J. K. Glickerson, North Kenwood street; Ludwig Gossman, Sycamore canyon; E. E. Herrington, Geneva and

"Is It Hot Enough for You?" Asks James

"Is it hot enough for you?" This question stirs the blood of Henry James, and in his comment on the news of the day this evening, on the editorial page, he says that human beings with the outward appearance of intelligence continue asking perspiring friends this question. He wants to know why they do "this stupid and irritating thing." And he asks what is the precise difference between such an idiot. Mr. Foxy in "The Listening Post" has something to say about gaining knowledge through adversity, possibly more than through prosperity. There are all the other editorial features and good editorials. You are recommended to again turn to this page this evening and enjoy it.

COUNCIL DEFERS ELECTION PAY ACTION

First Decide to Pay $5 for Counting Ballots, Then
Rescind Decision

On motion of Councilman Dwight Stephenson, the city council on Thursday night voted to allow the election officials of the 28 precincts in the recent election the sum of $5 for the handling of the city vote on the three bond issues. This action was, on motion of Councilman Davis, rescinded, and the entire matter laid over until next Tuesday night.

Councilman Davis asked that the action be rescinded on the grounds that inasmuch as the election was a combination city and county job, and as the county pays the officials approximately $10 each for services during the election, the $5 in addition from the city was too much. He said that in his mind, $2 would be ample.

He said that the actual time required to count the vote on the bonds would average about 15 minutes for each precinct. He said that for the 28 precincts involved, approximately $340 would be required to pay the officials if they were granted $5 each. He contended that it was not right to spend that much city funds to pay for the small count of votes.

The matter will be taken up at the next meeting of the city council on Tuesday night and decided one way or the other.

In the canvass of the votes cast in the election it was found that the total vote in Glendale approximated 3537 ballots cast.

Mr. Stepler appeared before the council and asked permission to withdraw his protest to the widening and extension of Ivy street. He gave as his reason for reconsidering his former action that there was no support to the protest when support had been tentatively promised.

Councilman Lapham moved that all protests on Ivy street improvement be denied, as there were not sufficient protests to carry.

September 14 was set as the date for hearing protests against the improvement of Pacific avenue from Broadway to San Fernando road; Kenneth road from Sonora to West Lomita; Doran street; Mountain street from Western to Alameda, and San Fernando road from Pacific avenue to Magnolia street. As 55 per cent of the property owners along Louise street north from Doran street had signed a protest to that improvement work, it was sustained.

Ordinances establishing grades on the following streets were adopted: Myrtle street, two alleys, Rurba, Gilbert, Fairmont, Burchett and Pioneer drive. Resolutions of intention for the improvement of Stanley avenue east of Adams street, and Thompson and Irving streets for water pipe only, were adopted.

Ordinances of intention to open and lay out Washington avenue, Dorothy drive and Ninth street, were adopted.

JUDGE LOWE IS IN DESPAIR

Judge Lowe's grist of traffic casts this morning numbered 25, which is an increase over last Monday. He says he is in despair over ways and means of making the punishment fit the crime, as the fines he imposes seem to have little effect in reducing reckless driving. Because of the fearful congestion at the county jail and the awful conditions resulting from the congestion, he cannot bring himself to impose a jail sentence on a man who may be locked up in a room with 40 other prisoners, including negroes, Mexicans and all kinds of offenders against law and order.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 1.—Johnny Kilbane, featherweight champion, announced today that he would meet Johnny Dundee, of New York, in a 12-round no-decision bout at Boyle's Thirty Acres, Jersey City, for the title, September 29. Kilbane will begin training immediately.

LA CRESCENTA, MONTROSE, BURBANK PLACE DELEGATES IN BEST BABY COMPETITION

Whole District Is Now Interested in the Big Sweepstake; Parents and Their Little Champions
Through the Daily Press Office

TOTS REALIZE IMPORTANCE OF THE EVENT
Every Candidate Is Worthy of a Prize, But They Are Getting Too Numerous for Such Wholesale
Reward; However, They'll Have Chance

The best baby contest has settled down to a steady stride, with the applications coming in as regularly as the postman makes his rounds and with visits from parents and babies in between. If they continue to arrive at the same rate, the first of November will find more than 1000 babies listed from this district. The entrance blanks now coming from La Crescenta, Montrose and Burbank will without doubt increase materially from this on. Some of the handsomest children exhibited at the office of the Press have come from these centers of population outside Glendale, where they seem able to raise as good babies as the Glendale variety. The editor is hoping to have opportunity to see whether all the babies grown in these settlements are up to the standard of the samples seen thus far.

In the Montrose list are little Jean and Royal Lowe, the daughter and son of Mr. and Mrs. R. I. Lowe, who moved from Los Angeles to Montrose last June and like it so much there they could not be persuaded to live anywhere else.

Mr. Lowe was in the service of his country overseas when his son was born and never saw the child until he was a year old. Royal is now a few months past four years and is a handsome, sturdy little fellow with dark eyes and dark curls that would gladden the heart of any father. When he was four years old his parents subjected him to the psychology test of a child expert and he passed 11 months ahead of his age, taking the five-year test easily. Jean is a fair-haired little maid of a year and three months, just as charming as

as a baby as her brother is as a "big boy."

Geraldine Grisham, the fair, blue-eyed daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Grisham, is quite an unusual child who began to talk at ten months and was walking when a year old. Her daddy is her best playmate and when he is not at home she amuses herself with her picture books, to which she is devoted. Like most children she is fond of auto riding and is always ready to go to Watts to see her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry O'Brien, who are always delighted to see her.

Ethel May Dougherty, daughter of H. W. Dougherty, of 368 West Pioneer, Glendale, is a blond baby four years and four months old, gay and full of ambition, ready to play the long day through. Though she has no dog and kitten, she is very fond of animals and is always trying to entice them to her home. She loves music and tries to play on the piano and her parents hope she will some day be a fine performer.

THIEVES LOOT U. S. MOVES FOR BALDWIN SHIRT COMPANY INJUNCTION IN RAIL STRIKE

Attorney General Asks
Sweeping Injunction
Against Unions

CHICAGO, Sept. 1.—The United States government moved today to aid railroads to break the strike of shopmen.

Harry M. Daugherty, United States attorney general, appeared personally before United States District Judge James Wilkerson and asked the granting of a blanket injunction to prevent the strikers from interfering in any manner with the hiring of new workers by railroads.

The injunction, which was issued, restrains the railroad employees' department of the American Federation of Labor, which has charge of the strike, from interfering with the operation of shops throughout the country by strike breakers. The injunction was asked in Chicago as the headquarters of the strikers are here and the railroad labor board, in whose interest Daugherty is acting, is located in this city.

Daugherty's appearance before Judge Wilkerson at 10 a. m., was a surprise.

The petition was read to the court by an aide to the attorney general.

The injunction petition was characterized as one of the most far-reaching and drastic ever requested of a federal court in a labor dispute.

Union officials will be restrained from "issuing any instructions, public statements or suggestions to its members regarding the conduct of the strike."

Funds of the union will be tied up and no money can be used to further the strike.

The court was requested to prevent all picketing, gatherings of strikers and threats of violence or any act which would hinder the operation of trains carrying interstate mail or freight.

FRENCH INSIST ON FREEDOM

PARIS, Sept. 1.—The French cabinet today refused to concur in the decision of the allied reparations commission and reserved the right to take independent action against Germany.

Babe Ruth Is Again in Bad With Baseball Authorities

CHICAGO, Sept. 1.—Babe Ruth, home run king, again fell in disrepute with the baseball authorities today.

President Ban Johnson of the American league suspended Ruth for three days as a result of "vicious and vulgar" language used by the Yankee player in Wednesday's game at New York.

Ruth used the disrespectful language, Johnson said, in protesting a decision by Umpire Connolly.

The Yankee star will be eligible to play in the games Labor day.

BIG ADVENTIST CAMP MEETING OPENS

Thirty Acre Tract Is Decked With 400 Tents;
Big Top for 5000

The big 30-acre tract at Vermont and Slauson is the scene of much activity these days. The 20th annual conference and camp meeting of the Seventh-day Adventists of Southern California opened last night, and will continue until September 10. A. G. Daniells, the general secretary of the Foreign Missionary board of Washington, D. C., preached the opening sermon.

There are over 400 tents of all sizes erected on the grounds, including the big gospel tent, which will accommodate, with its sides lifted, 5,000 people. The large departmental tents, and the small family tents give the place the appearance of a regular tent city. Everything is laid out systematically with streets, avenues, and each tent numbered. The camp is modern with a sanitary water system installed, and the grounds are well lighted. Already there are several hundreds of families in camp, and scores coming continually.

President W. Milton Adams, who is in charge, has arranged an army of efficient workers who see to the convenience and comfort of the patrons and public. He has arranged a very interesting program for the week. Some of the best speakers of the denomination will speak each day at 11 a. m., 3 p. m., and 8 p. m. A large choir and orchestra will assist with special music, and J. W. Rich will lead the congregational singing.

President W. Milton Adams will be the speaker this evening. University cars, marked Florence avenue, stop at the main entrance.

REPUBLICAN BOLT FROM RICHARDSON NOMINATION ORGANIZED IN NORTH

Petitions Are Being Drawn to Place City Manager of Sacramento in Independent Nomination for State Executive

6,500 SIGNATURES WOULD BE NECESSARY
Only Those Who Did Not Vote at the Primaries May Sign for New Candidate to Enter the Race for Governorship of California

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 1.—With the count of votes cast at Tuesday's primary election now at a point where most counties have ceased unofficial tabulations and official counts must be awaited, interest turned today largely to the talk of a third, independent, candidate entering the race for governor.

Clyde Seavey, city manager of Sacramento, a Stephens supporter, and Mayor James Rolph, Jr., of San Francisco, who sought the governorship four years ago against Stephens at the primaries, were the men looked to as the possible leaders of the factions desiring another candidate.

Seavey, in a statement to the United Press at Sacramento yesterday, indicated his willingness to run if petitions carrying sufficient signatures to nominate him were filed.

Rolph thus far has been non-committal.

In order to nominate an independent, petitions carrying the signatures of 1 percent of the vote cast at the last gubernatorial election must be filed within 30 days. Only persons who did not vote at the primary can sign. About 6,500 signatures would be necessary. These petitions were being prepared for Seavey today.

Thus far neither Richardson nor Woolwine, the republican and democratic candidates named at the primaries Tuesday, has taken any public notice of the third candidate movement.

Figures on Tuesday's vote tabulated today showed these standings:

For governor, republican ticket, 5,555 out of 6,595 precincts—Richardson 260,202; Stephens 240,531; Richardson's plurality, 19,671.

For senator, republican ticket, 5,941 precincts out of 6,595—Johnson 281,901; Moore 215,899. Johnson's plurality, 66,002.

Minor inaccuracies in the count in two counties have been brought to light by rechecking, changing the pluralities only slightly. These counties were Humboldt and Sacramento.

It probably will be two weeks before the exact result is known. In the meantime only stray precincts, at best, can be expected to report.

Democratic party leaders were understood today to be planning an spirited campaign on behalf of Woolwine for governor and Peterson for the senate, but no one seemed to be ready to make public just what these plans consisted of.

Richardson headquarters continued to "do business" here, while Richardson was preparing for a few days' rest before continuing on the final stretch of his campaign. He is at present in Sacramento.

Woolwine is at his Los Angeles home and was expected to announce soon whether he would resign as district attorney of Los Angeles county before he begins active campaigning.

Many were of the opinion that he would not resign, at least until some of the more important cases pending in his office have been cleared up.

Much talk that the "wet and dry" issue would be a big one between Richardson and Woolwine in November was being passed around here.

Richardson is known as a "dry" and has been such for years. Woolwine usually has met such questions with an answer that he was district attorney and he proposed to enforce laws on the statute books—and he let it go at that. But common gossip among politicians put him down as a "wet."

Just how the alignment will work out, however, remains to be seen. Campaigning was expected to be quiet until the latter part of the month, after the state conventions meet and central committees are organized.

Raymond Benjamin, republican state chairman, gave out a statement declaring he proposed to withdraw from active political leadership when the new central committee organizes.

TO CONFER ON REAL WORK

George W. Johnson, consulting electrical engineer of Pasadena, who is chairman of the northeast district regional planning conference, who has charge of the project, is expected to arrive in Glendale on September 16, is expected to hold this morning conference with City Manager Adams.

The conference will be entertained by city officials and the chamber of commerce in Verdugo Woods and will be given a ride through the new Glendale-Vermont park.

The conference will consider problems connected with highways, sanitation, flood control, parks and playgrounds, zoning, legislation, and topographical maps, etc.

PATTERSON PARK IS NEXT CITY TASK

Mayor Declares Improvement Is of First Importance

Mayor Spencer Robinson declares that the next important work to be pushed by the city council will be the improvement of Patterson avenue park in the northwest section of Glendale.

The city has already appointed to that park a guard, who is an expert swimmer to look after the youngsters who patronize the pool, and has likewise appointed a professional nurse to guard the welfare of all patrons of the park.

The next enterprise will be to build a pavilion to furnish shade for park visitors and to include an office for nurse and guard.

A landscape architect is to be employed to lay out the park and after his report is received the city will proceed to plant and otherwise beautify it.

THURSDAY IS SET FOR WOMEN'S SWIM

R. L. Church, Superintendent of City Pool Com-
plies With Request

Responding to appeals of the women patrons of the Patterson park swimming pool, R. L. Church, superintendent, announced yesterday that in the future, Thursday will be set aside for the exclusive use of the pool as ladies' day, on which the women, and their children only will be admitted to bath.

"Of course, if sufficient numbers do not come on that day," he explained, "the day may be changed or it may be eliminated. A number of women, however, have asked me to set aside one day when there are no men and boys around and on which they can take their children for a swim."

Heat Forgotten in Entertainment at Members' Homes

The intense heat of Thursday did not hinder the Berean class of the Baptist church from having a good time at the progressive party given by the president, Mrs. J. F. Steady. Mrs. Edith Dockery is teacher of the class.

The entertainment was to be given by the individual members. The home of Mrs. Marsh, 229 North Maryland avenue, was the first to be visited, where among other good things an original poem by Mrs. Bright, in which she set forth the fun of being comforted in hot weather under the president's watchful eye.

The next visit was to the home of Mrs. Bright, 219 North Maryland avenue, where everyone was given a beautiful corsage bouquet of asters and ferns. The ladies here listened to a beautiful song by Mrs. Moody and Mrs. McKeever, entitled "In the Garden." Items in regard to some of the missionaries were read by Mrs. Kemp and others.

Across the street the ladies were guests at the home of Mrs. Bannan, 314 North Maryland avenue, where they listened to readings by Mrs. Sloat and Mrs. Dockery. Mrs. Jennie Dorse also read a toast in rhyme to the Berean class. Mrs. Dorse is teacher of the R. T. W. class.

The last stop was at the home of the president, Mrs. Moody, 320 North Maryland where they found the many gifts that they had been preparing for the summer Christmas tree, piled upon a long table. These gifts are a donation from this class and consist of comforts, bedding and fancy articles amounting to about $100. After these had been duly admired the host, assisted by her daughter, Miss Maude Moody and Miss Ethel Chase, served pineapple sorbet and homemade cake.

EAGLE ROCK SALES OF REALTY ARE INCREASING

C. W. Jones Predicts Big, Brisk Trade in the Fall

Real estate sales during the past few days, according to dealers throughout the city, are continually on the increase this week. C. W. Jones, secretary of the local realty board, is prophesying a big fall for Eagle Rock.

During the past week he has been the means of placing several newcomers in locations. A. H. Bond of the Title Insurance and Trust company of Los Angeles has bought a home at 112 Pearl street, and plans to bring his family here. Marshall Gardner, head watch repair man for the Rittigstein Jewelry company of Los Angeles, is also to locate in Eagle Rock, having bought a residence at 231 Mt. Helena last week. Mrs. Jennie F. Ohlman of Acacia has purchased two lots on Acacia and Ellenwood drive and plans to build at both places. C. W. Jones announces that the business lots fronting on Colorado, between Pearl and Kenilworth, were officially placed upon the market today and that he expects to keep this property moving.

ANAHEIM LANDING SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

Anaheim Landing this week attracted a bunch of Angelenos, including the wives and families of Publisher A. Bert Jamison, Herb Brown, the song writer, Jack Cadman, Bowe Trowbridge, of Fullerton, recently back from France, the Haggerty, Greaves families, and Dr. A. C. Pratt, recently returned from New Mexico. Many deep-sea trips were taken aboard Dr. Brown's motorboat "The Sneak." The beach coterie had its headquarters at Lovejoy's villa. Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Lovejoy, the hosts, are Highland Park residents, who frequently have been Glendale visitors.

Mrs. Dixie Girard Brown, who has been frequently entertained by her sister, Mrs. A. Burnside Sturges, of the Wilshire district, writes from the Maine coast that New Englanders are holding a notable celebration at Harpswell and at Bowdoin college, Brunswick, in honor of the distinguished Congregationalists, Rev. Elijah Kellogg, who wrote a score of boys' books for the past generation, and Rev. Elijah Eaton.

The old church where these men preached and their homes have been filled with relics and nautical souvenirs and a fund was raised to preserve the old church at Harpswell Center.

Mrs. Kate Douglas Wiggin's "The Old Peabody Farm" was dramatized and enjoyed by thousands of visitors from coast to coast who are summering on the Maine shores.

Pastors Eaton and Kellogg attended Bowdoin, where Poet Longfellow was once a professor.

Belmont Shore Place—is the Greatest Playground on the Pacific Coast, on one side rolls the Grand old Pacific, on the other lies sparkling Alamitos Bay.

Buy Now—Build When You Can!

Without any doubt, Long Beach, the fastest growing city in the world, is destined to be a city of 250,000 by 1930. Henry P. Barbour, President of the Long Beach Realty Board, and pioneer, predicts ONE MILLION inhabitants by 1937!

Present figures cannot deceive! In the past two years this city has grown from 55,593 to 90,000; almost an average growth of 20,000 a year. Disregarding a percentage rate of increase, each year, a conservative growth in eight years by 1930 positively assures 160,000 newcomers, or a total of 250,000!

Not only the population growth, but the new manufacturing interests, bank deposits and clearings compel this prediction to come true!

Can you doubt, then, that Belmont Shore Place will absorb the lion's share of this growth, with the Harbor District cutting it off on the West, Oil Wells on the North and the Pacific Ocean on the South? The last remaining homesteads by Ocean and Bay are at Belmont Shore Place, offering you the greatest real estate investment in Southern California! Our advice to you is to BUY NOW and BUILD LATER, while you can still own a lot on easy terms at $750 and UP!

Putting it off is decidedly dangerous, for in the entire history of Long Beach nothing has equalled the sale of Belmont Shore Place lots since they have been put on the market!

SEE and BUY while you can at these low prices.

MUNSON LINER RUNS AMUCK

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 1.—An Argentine gunboat was sunk and five other vessels rammed and badly damaged by the Munson liner American Legion, which became unmanageable in the harbor here when about to leave for New York yesterday.

Only the fact that many ships were in the harbor to participate in the rescue work prevented loss of life.

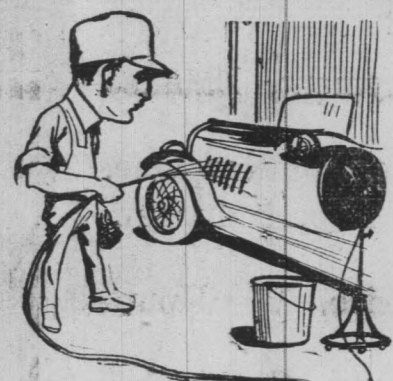

The American Legion will sail for New York tonight. A check-up showed four injured in the mishap but none killed.

The American Legion, of 13,737 tons, is the largest of the Munson line, which has been establishing a popular passenger service between New York and South American ports.

DINNER DANCE OF ROTARIANS HAVE ST. MARK'S IS BIG SUCCESS

Two Hundred and Fifty Attend Function at the Masonic Temple

The dinner-dance given Thursday evening at Masonic temple by the ladies of St. Mark's guild, Glendale, was a success both socially and financially, for they entertained during the evening about 250 of Glendale's pleasure-loving people.

Dinner was served at 6:30 from long tables which were artistically decorated in pink and white. In each window was a large basket filled with dahlias and asters.

Following the dinner, the floor was cleared and the remainder of the evening was devoted to dancing and card playing, music being furnished by that ever-melodious, tantalizing group, the "Bailey Four," one of Glendale's finest orchestras.

Those who served the delicious dinner were the Misses Dorris Potter, Olive Taylor, Kathleen Taylor, Lilla E. Litch, Louise Ayala, Elizabeth Faries, Gertrude Champlain and Messrs. Francis Reed, Graham MacDonald, Charles Gibbs, Malcolm Barnard and Alec Badger.

During the dancing a pretty arranged punch table was presided over by Mrs. Frank England and Mrs. A. C. Rowsey, who served delicious and refreshing punch.

Those in charge of the evening's entertainment were Mrs. A. A. Bassett in charge of the dinner, Mrs. Roy Downing in charge of the card room, and Mrs. Mortimer Baker, in charge of the dance.

This affair was a benefit for the guild fund of St. Mark's Episcopal church and a good sum was realized.

Burbank, Monrovia and San Fernando Send Delegates

Guests from Monrovia, Burbank and San Fernando, were entertained at the regular weekly luncheon of the Glendale Rotary club, held Thursday noon at the chamber of commerce auditorium. Twenty Monroviaans attended, while Burbank sent five representatives and San Fernando, two.

Will Forkner, the sales manager of the Morland Truck factory of Burbank, gave an interesting talk to the club.

The principal address of the day was given by Jack Williams of Long Beach, district governor, who reported on the recent conference of district governors which was held in the east three weeks ago. Mr. Williams dwelt principally on Rotary principals and the application of the Rotary code of ethics to the business activities of each member.

"France" Henry gave one of his characteristic Scotch songs, which was greatly appreciated. He also led the singing of the Rotary songs, one of the popular features of every meeting. Paul Carson, Glendale theater organist, performed on the piano, much to the delight of his hearers.

The Glendale Rotary will be host to members of the local Kiwanis club at the meeting next Thursday, September 7.

PASADENA LABOR BOARD PLANS CELEBRATION

Sister Cities to Unit in Monday's Festivities at Brookside

Pasadena's labor board has made preparations this year to stage its labor day celebration on so large a scale at Brookside park that it will be a big family community affair, attracting folk from Glendale and all parts of Los Angeles county. The much-advertised stadium, now nearly finished in Arroyo Seco, just north of Brookside, is a lure as is the newly finished Arroyo drive, so that Monday will doubtless exceed the quota of 25,000 visitors who are expected. At 10:30 the Cox-Haas and Eagles' teams, semi-pro stars, will cross bats, at noon Pasadena's municipal band will play after the lunch baskets are opened and the park ovens discharge their luscious baked freight and at 1 o'clock the concerts will be resumed.

Saxophonist Jack Regan, French horn artist, W. Hoss, flutist, H. T. Staats, xylophonist, James Gilbert, will play. Miss Marjorie Adams, grand opera soprano will sing and Miss Eleanor Miller, just nominated to the Sacramento assembly, will give a reading. Rev. A. F. Hasse, a live-wire speaker from Arizona, will talk.

At 2:30 the swimming relay, boys and girls and adults races will start, including a bargain counter race for under women, an apple scramble and novelty events. Cameras will doubtless be kept busy.

After dark the board will have a double entertainment at the Pasadena theatre with films and vaudeville at 7 and at 9.

On Tuesday Pasadena voted $200,000 additional Brookside bonds. The Red Cross will have a tent, physicians and nurses there.

MISS CLEOPHAS PLAYS TONIGHT

South Louise street, returned Wednesday from a two weeks' camping trip. After a four days trip up the coast as far as San Francisco, eight days were spent in the Big Basin in the Santa Cruz mountains. GLENDALE HAS NEW PRIVATE PATROL

Offices Are Opened for Service at 220 North Brand

Assuring the people of Glendale that they will be given the most efficient service, the Glendale private police, with B. R. Sims as president and R. O. Scott as manager, have opened their offices at 220 North Brand boulevard.

This service works in connection with one of the largest patrols in the southwest, the Nick Harris police, who have a huge searchlight by which they are enabled to get in touch with 55 men in less than ten minutes. All the men on the Glendale patrol must first be passed by the Glendale chief of police and then sworn in.

President Sims was formerly with the U. S. intelligence department, while Mr. Scott spent two and a half years with the Nick Harris Hollywood department. Both are ex-service men.

J., where Mr. Thomson will represent the Los Angeles Athletic club in the national races for high and low hurdles. From Newark he will go to Hanover, N. H., to take up his duties as assistant coach in Dartmouth college.

King Solomon was a visitor in Eagle Rock Wednesday. He is in search of another wife. He now has 1999. He doesn't like the number. It is too much like an automobile license, and he almost was pinched in Eagle Rock the other night. It didn't please his royal highness, so in order to get even with the city he wants another wife.

KEAC ORCHESTRA AIDS TEA ROOM OPENING

The Adobe Flores tea house at Pasadena held its formal opening Thursday evening, the KEAC orchestra of Glendale furnishing the music. This new tea house is situated on the golf links of the Hotel Raymond at Pasadena, and the proceeds from the opening affair will be turned over to help furnish the American Legion clubhouse there.

This adobe is not the marriage place of Ramona, but of two noted movie stars, Rex Ingram and Alice Terry. Tickets for admission were sold at $1 each, including refreshments. Delightful Spanish music and music for dancing was furnished by the Glendale KEAC orchestra.

GOODE & BELEW REPORT GOOD BUSINESS

Old Stand at 110 East Broadway Is Doing Well

Goode & Belew, dyers and cleaners at the old stand, 110 East Broadway, report business very good in their line. They have made preparations to take care of an increased business, and, according to Mr. Goode, have not been disappointed, as their wagons are kept on the go all the time.

All the delivery wagons have been repainted and now bear the sign, "Goode & Belew, Cleaners and Dyers, 110 East Broadway, phone Glendale 364," and they will be glad to call for and make quick deliveries on any work in their line. Goode & Belew, who have been located at 110 East Broadway for the last three and one-half years, have built up a splendid reputation for prompt service, good work and right prices, and the business they are enjoying is sufficient evidence to lead the observer to believe that they will continue to grow. Their equipment is modern and up-to-date, and experts are employed to handle the work.

FAIRVIEW UNIT MAKES RECORD IN SALES

Ninth to Be Offered and Is Fifty Percent Sold in Week

The ninth unit of Fairview, which was opened by Hamlin & Hepburn a little more than a week ago, has already been more than half sold. The subdividers point out that this fact alone is evidence of the desirability of lots in this beautiful, fast developing section of Glendale. Not only is it desirable, but the terms are the most reasonable which have been offered to investors and home-seekers in Glendale in many years.

This property is first-class in every respect. It is ideally located, close to transportation, with an unsurpassed view, not far from the magnificent estate of L. C. Brand, and all surrounded by high-class subdivisions with high restrictions. Hamlin & Hepburn allow neat, temporary homes for a sufficient length of time to enable worthy people who have not owned property heretofore, to start their own home with very little cash capital at the present time.

The northwest section is developing in a remarkable manner. A new $32,000 grammar school has recently been built within a few blocks of the tract, and considerably over 100 homes have been built, where a year ago there were barley fields and growing crops.

Anyone who really desires to have a home of their own will find this the opportunity they have been looking for. Salesmen will be at the tract office all day Sunday and Labor day.

He was recently given the rank of first lieutenant in the national guard.

The luncheon was given in honor of the 1921 matrons of the southern jurisdiction.

POLICE RECORD IS FULL OF TROUBLE

The record at police headquarters in the city hall for the past 24 hours showed a fire at 1:45 a. m., which destroyed a car in a garage at 629 Orange Grove avenue.

A stray mule was annoying Attorney and Mrs. P. S. McNutt at their ranch on Sierra avenue, and a call for relief was sent to the Glendale station.

A man trying to pawn a watch was arrested on suspicion on East Colorado, but was released when he proved to the satisfaction of the officer that it was his watch and he was trying to get money to visit a relative in Burbank.

MISS KITTERMAN IS GIVEN SHOWER

September Bride Honoree at Reception at Hamilton Home

Miss Lavera Kitterman, a September bride to be, was the honored guest Thursday evening at a men shower, given by Miss Dorothy Hamilton of 350 Ivy street.

A dainty color scheme of pink and white was carried out by using pink asters and crepe paper. From the chandelier over the dining table were draped pink crepe paper streamers, and the table was centered with a large bowl of asters and dahlias in the same color.

The evening was spent in playing "pin" and "rook," following which refreshments of ice cream and cake were served from small baskets. Favors were tiny bonbon baskets in the shape of pink roses.

During the evening, Jerry Aldridge, dressed as Cupid, came into the living room wheeling a pink cart on which were two beautiful gifts of linen for the honoree. Invited guests were Mrs. Ed Murphy, Mrs. F. D. Percey, Mrs. R. F. Kitterman, Miss Lois Percey, Miss Eleanor Perkins, Miss Mabel Cunningham, Mrs. Lester Percey, Misses Mildred and Alice Johnson, Mrs. C. R. Lusby, Miss Ruth Spafford, Miss Dora Wainwright, Mrs. Emil Kiefer, Mrs. Catherine Lord, Mrs. Ellis Thomas and Miss Helen Ingledue. Miss Hamilton was assisted in serving by her aunt, Mrs. Catherine Lord.

ART DIBBERN INSTALLS CLOCK

Glendadians are awakening to the fact that Art Dibbern, one of Glendale's leading jewelers, has rendered them a great service and supplied a long-felt want in the north end of the city. He has installed a clock over his store.

The clock was installed on Monday, but the first time that it was publicly noticed was Thursday. Several of the "regulars" around town that make their headquarters at the Pacific Electric depot were wondering what time it was and one of them turned and saw the clock. After three days the clock was noticed.

The clock is mounted at the peak of a new sign advertising the jewelry store of Mr. Dibbern.

"If You Believe It, It's So" Shown at Local Theater

There are some stars from whom a faultless performance is always expected, and numbered among these is Thomas Meighan. That he can always be relied upon to supply the most desirable form of entertainment was again demonstrated last evening at the T. D. & L. theatre, when his Paramount vehicle was given its premiere here. Bearing the unusual title, "If You Believe It, It's So," it tells in thrilling sequence the story of a city crook who is strangely reformed and finds love and happiness. Adapted from the novel of Perley Poore Sheehan, and interpreted by a cast which includes such favorites as Theodore Roberts, Charles Ogle, Pauline Stark and Joseph J. Dowling, the picture should enjoy popular favor.

'KISSES' AT THE GLENDALE TODAY

Alice Lake Appears With Harry Myers as Stars

Harry Myers, the comedian who suddenly leaped to prominence through his enactment of the Yankee in "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court," and of Gilly, one of the crooks in Rex Ingram's screen production for Metro of "Turn to the Right," has an important role in a second Metro picture, "Kisses," which will be shown today and tomorrow at the Glendale theatre.

In "Turn to the Right," a photograph of the John Golden stage success, by Winchell Smith and Jack Hazzard, Mr. Myers utilized his two most pronounced aptitudes of portrayal. Before the role of the Yankee in the Mark Twain story, he had been chosen usually for crook roles. This picture, however, discovered his comic abilities. Hence, when Mr. Ingram sought an underworld type who could be funny, he immediately thought of Mr. Myers for the part of Gilly. Maxwell Karger, who directed "Kisses" for Metro, with Alice Lake as the star, cast Mr. Myers in the character of an adventurous traveling salesman. "Kisses," written by May Tully, was adapted to the screen by June Mathis.

HOUSEHOLD FASHION COOKING CHILDREN

Dining on the roof of one of New York's smart hotels the other night was a distinguished looking girl whose clothes had that "Frenchy" appearance which immediately attracts attention. Her gown was made of some dark bluish material simply cut and with no decoration save a wide gathered panel embroidered in Persian pattern which hung in the rear from the waistline, in apron effect. As she prepared to leave she slipped the panel about her shoulders, snapped it together on either side under the arms and strolled out in a smart embroidered wrap. The effect was one of a three-piece suit.

UNCHILLED MILK BAD FOR BABIES

According to Dr. W. A. Evans, health expert of Chicago, ice is an absolute necessity in every home where there is a bottle-fed baby, if liquid milk is to be used. While fresh milk is unquestionably the best food for babies, the physician advises parents who cannot get ice to feed their babies on canned milk, milk powder or baby food. Illness will speedily develop, he says, if unchilled milk is used. The same authority says that milk cannot be kept fresh enough for older children without the aid of ice.

Entire gowns metallic cloth in both broadened changeable colored effect and plain tinsel are dressing the windows of Fifth avenue's finest shops. They are designed primarily for evening usage, although some of the darker weaves have long sleeves that would permit their appearance at afternoon functions. Most of them are fur-trimmed in long shaggy fur. A familiar instance is shown in a sleeveless evening gown, with its metallic cloth combining the shades of tomato red, black and gold, with a wide border of black monkey fur about the bottom of the long skirt.

There are two essentials to a woman's success—tact and charming manner.

DISTINCTIVE COSTUMES FROM PARIS

At the left is a sleeveless gown of orange georgette, attractively trimmed with red beads. The skirt is the latest ankle length model, draped on either side to the heel. The other features a short coat of embroidered black satin, lined with the same material in white, which is also carried out in a triangle effect in the front.

VALUE OF CLUB ORGANIZATION TO WOMEN

Mrs. Lineman Points Out Power of Business Women's Club

Mrs. Mab Copeland Lineman, who addressed members of the Glendale Business and Professional Women's club at their picnic meeting Tuesday night in Verdugo Woodlands, out of her own experience in organizations and as president of the Los Angeles Lawyers' club, recited in a forceful way the great value of clubs to women, particularly business women. Said she:

"The main thing in club life, to my mind, is the information it can give us, and the power behind our organization. We are all busy women out in the business world. In order to put ourselves abreast of the men in the business world we have to keep ourselves conversant with the world's affairs. We come home tired and do not feel alive enough to read the newspaper thoroughly. Nothing looks so good to us as a little relaxation and then going to bed. But always in the back of our minds is the question: 'How are we going to learn about the affairs of the world?' There is only one way and that is the way you have started, organizing a business and professional women's club and then having come before you men and women who have made special studies of subjects that they can put before you in a concise way, knowledge it would be impossible for you to get in any other way. That is the great thing in belonging to a club.

"Coming together too as business women sharpens your wits. I was a charter member of the Women Lawyers' club of Los Angeles and am now its president. It is my dream that some day the women lawyers will bring their problems to that club. Only in that way can they get the benefit of the mistakes that the ones a little older in the profession have made. Men have never come to that point and we have not had much success yet. It is a long road to bring women together and keep them together. But they have come to the point where they have to look after themselves. Only women are going to secure legislation for women. We have wonderful men who have done wonderful things for us, but we are not yet where we ought to be and nobody is going to hand anything to us on a gold platter. The only way we are going to be able to change the laws now is force or to bring about new laws for the protection of women in industry or in their property rights is by organizing as you have done.

"As representatives of the Glendale Business and Professional Women's club you have a power behind you that you cannot estimate, and that is the value to you of your organization—the good you can do for yourselves and others in your own line of endeavor. You doubtless have heard it said you can only get out of a club what you have put into it. When I go into a club I say: 'I am not going to sit on the side lines. I want to work.' Just in proportion as you take an interest and get into committees and work, that much more will you love your club and find it so interesting you will try to swell its membership.

"What a wonderful organization you can have in a growing city like this! Already you are known. We are mighty proud of you in the federation and we want you to live up to our expectations. If the business woman is going to keep at least of the times she must make herself felt in legislation. Never forget that legislation means the minimum wage, the eight-hour day, the protection of your property. It is at the foundation of your life. If you are going to be a power in legislation and in the greatest business in the world, the business of running the government of your United States, you must come out and take your part in politics. Politics often means us women like graft; the loudest thing it says to me is really it is the science of government.

"We are given the great opportunity of taking part in the government of the United States. Nothing is so dear to me as my vote. I am next to my religion. One thing does not belong to us. We have only a little while before we get the butcher and the baker away from us and that is the time if we do not exercise it we are taking advantage of what we have along with the women have to give us."

For the semi-dress occasion the black charmeuse gown with velvet or brocade ribbon is turning the place of the beaded gown. A long-lined black charmeuse with wide bands of electric blue ribbon extending from the shoulder to below the elbow, the charmeuse begins again, the beads in tiny design almost completely cover the velvet. No other trimming is used.

Many of the velvet have reversible crowns with velvet on one side and embroidered metallic cloth on the other. The treatment provided a hat that wears as well as for street.

Crepe weaves continue to be popular for afternoon wear in preference to the shiny surfaced fabrics. Only a few will wear in the evening.

The Fall Sleeves

Sleeves vary in accordance with the gown. While most of the new models use the long, full sleeve, there are exception as in the case of the long, tight-fitting bodiced gown. With these latter types sleeves are long and tight to the wrist for day wear and short and cap-shaped for evening wear.

Petret will rule supreme for the street frock, as does duvetyne and velvet for the dressy afternoon gown. Where trimming other than fur is used it is usually in inserts of brocade metallic cloth. Beading is not prevalent for day time dresses as more stress is being laid this season to the texture of the material and to perfection of line than is to trimming or beadwork. Brown is the leading color for the street costume and ranges in shade from beige to Havana brown.

Practically no tailored suits were shown in the fashion review. Costume suits, however, consisting of the draped dress and the short coat were well represented and in every instance were fur-trimmed. In fact, fur is the dominate note in the fall fashion world.

Finish of the Twill

This fall will see the finish of the tweed suit. It has been killed by the popularity of the past season. In its place we will have the three-quarter length topcoat made of soft hairy materials in wood shades among which camel's hair will be a leader.

Evening gowns presented by the garment retailers were made on similar lines to the evening gowns that we know. They are sleeveless with the same rounding necklines, the same long, slightly bloused waists. Skirts, of course, will be much longer with side draperies touching the floor. Chiffons form the majority of these formal frocks and every conceivable color is used. Velvets in vivid tones also promise to hold an important place in the evening apparel. These are all made on simple lines with no trimming save bucklets of diamants or cluster pearls, where the drape is held in place.

Evening wraps have never been so exquisite in coloring or texture as they will be this coming season. Brocade velvets and metallic cloths are among the newest of these. Often they are fur-lined so that they may be reversed. Linings play as important a part as do the wraps themselves and often two or more colors are arranged in design so that when the wrap is thrown back the wearer is surrounded by a rainbow-like background.

MRS. DARLING IS THANKED BY CITY MARSHAL

Writes Her Letter of Appreciation for Starting Police Fund

A letter in appreciation of the $5 given by Mrs. William Darling of Burbank toward the starting of a police emergency fund for the members of the local police department has been sent Mrs. Darling by Chief Marshal George R. Cole and with the approval of other members of the force.

The fact that many citizens "knock" police officers instead of offering them encouragement or favors and that Mrs. Darling had nothing personally to gain by making the gift is attributed by the officers as being the main reasons why they so warmly appreciate Mrs. Darling's gift.

Marshal Cole's letter to Mrs. Darling was as follows:

Mrs. William Darling, 319 Chestnut avenue, Burbank, Calif.
Dear Mrs. Darling: This is to acknowledge receipt of the $5 in cash you kindly gave recently towards starting a police emergency fund for the benefit of the members of the police department of the city of Burbank and to thank you for this gift, which is deeply appreciated by the undersigned and his fellow officers.

The very fact that you made this gift purely as a free-will offering because you felt kindly towards the officers of the law and not because you gave it as a reward for a personal favor in the past or because you were seeking a personal favor, or because you were personally acquainted with any or all members of the police department, is all the more reason why your action in making the gift was very pleasing to us officers.

As officers we in the future, as in the past, will serve you as impartial and in the same manner as any other person in Burbank.

As citizens of the city we are anxious to become personally acquainted with you and your family and to serve you in any way possible as fellow-citizens to reveal our personal gratitude.

Again assuring you of my heartfelt thanks and that of my fellow officers, I am,
Very truly yours,
GEO. R. COLE,
City Marshal.

N. W. BOXED APPLES

"The marketing of northwestern boxed apples," is the subject of the thesis presented by Harold Howard Maynard, for his degree of Doctor of Philosophy, just granted him by the University of Iowa. Mr. Maynard is assistant professor of business administration at the State College of Washington. He already has received, successively, the Bachelor of Arts degree from Iowa State Teachers' college, the Master of Arts degree from the University of Iowa, and the degree of Artium Magister from Harvard university.

Dr. Maynard discussed the seven marketing functions developed in the distribution of apples in the northwest, making a detailed study of the organization and services of cooperative associations, the cash buyers, the commission houses, and the national sales agencies. Special problems of grading, inspection, finance, traffic and advertising were given consideration, with application to fruit marketing in general.

AIRPLANE PUTS FEAR INTO MORO WARRIORS

They Think Allah Is Sending Messenger to Them

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Army airplanes have brought the "fear of God" to the aborigines of the Philippine islands.

Strange reports of how the natives act and what they think when the aerial activities of the third aero squadron, recently on duty at Jolo, Fulu archipelago, Philippine islands, reached the war department today.

Some Moros believe the airplane is emissary from Allah; others that the superhuman occupants are all-seeing and all-powerful; and still others that the plane is a dragon out of the South Seas, come to wreak dire vengeance on all bad Moros, according to an old Arabic tale.

One pilot reported that while on a reconnaissance flight over the island of Jolo, he was at loss to account for a native who was riding along the highway holding aloft in outstretched arms a small white sheet, as if in supplication. Upon landing he learned that certain natives are authorized to carry barongs or knives by written permit. Those apprehended with knives, but without permits, are severely punished. The native noticed by the pilot was carrying a barong and was holding his permit aloft for the pilot to read from his plane, fearing that a bomb might be dropped on him or that the plane might swoop down on him and confiscate his weapon.

IMMIGRATION LAW REDUCES REVENUE

Government Loses $5,000,000 in Visa Fees to Consuls

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—Rigidly restrictive immigration legislation enacted by congress in June, 1921, to dam the flood of foreigners surging to American shores, cost the state department over $5,000,000 in passport visa fees during the past fiscal year, and its position as the only self-supporting department of the government, as well.

In the fiscal year 1920-1921, the department collected over $10,000,000 largely from $10 visa fees paid by immigrants. This sum exceeded by $1,270,198.76 the amount paid out by the treasury to operate the department and its activities. The surplus was turned over to the treasury.

"Off the Hook"

When your telephone is accidentally left "off the hook," the operator first answers as she would if you were placing a call. After repeated efforts, receiving no response, she reports your line as "out of order." It is then disconnected from the regular switchboard and placed on a special board where it awaits the attention of the repairing forces.

All this takes time. It involves tests, reports and generally a trip to the location of the trouble.

In the meantime, what happens?

Others have been unable to reach you by telephone.

Even if the mistake has been discovered and your telephone placed on the hook, service may not be restored until the "troubleman's" final O. K.

On a party line all other telephones on the line are deprived of both incoming and outgoing service for the same period of investigation and repair.

"Off the hook" is a most common cause of interruption to telephone service. By the exercise of care in this connection you will protect your service and avoid inconvenience to yourself and others.

LINKING THE NATIONS

Prof. Alejandro Alvarez of Chile has been the latest to propose a plan for preservation of world peace. The significance lies in the fact that a thinker from that region should have formulated such a plan, rather than in the details of the scheme. Only a few years ago the student of history would not have thought of Chile as being embraced in the same circle of interests that comprehend Europe and the United States. Truly are distant peoples being wrought into one family.

Prof. Alvarez would seek to encourage regional and continental groups acting in harmony, rather than to replace them entirely. One objection to the League of Nations was its tendency to establish a super-state instead of to bring about co-ordination of states already in existence. All members of the league and of the Pan-American union automatically would become members of the association suggested by Alvarez, unless, of course, they specifically declined. Other nations could come in by a two-thirds vote of the assembly.

It is needless at this time to enlarge upon the devices for prevention of armed conflict. The present point is that a Chilean scholar is interested in the same purpose that inspired the League of Nations, and that later brought about the four-power treaty. It shows that the heaven is working throughout the world. There is a definite impulse everywhere to get away from the horror, the cost and the tragedy of battle. With such the temper of civilization, it is wholly within reason to assume that the thought of the universe will crystallize so as to be a controlling influence. Then will be the ushering in of a new era.

THE FABULOUS ARCTIC

Enthusiasts on Arctic exploration profess to believe that somewhere about the north pole is a kindly and desirable region. They do not picture it as flowing with milk and honey exactly, but intimate that it possesses great latent wealth and is capable of high development. With all respect for their courage and pertinacity, it is but fair to state that the general tendency is to set them down as dreamers. If the Arctic holds treasures untold, it holds them with a grip that is not to be broken by any method of which the human mind is master. Perhaps the future is to know a race to which a frozen sea and a wilderness of ice will be no barrier.

There is a natural desire to be made aware of the truth about the Arctic as of any other place remote. The scientists who study the planets, tell their weight, their temperatures, calculate their orbits, speculate as to life on them, are not wasting their time. The search for knowledge enlarges the understanding, informs man as to his rightful place in creation, increases his mental powers as muscular exercise increases physical powers. Men resent the mystery that they cannot fathom. The Arctic is a mystery, and they propose to fathom it.

Explorer Amundsen's ship, setting out so blithely for the far north, is not arriving. The air flight he had proposed to take has been deferred to another season, that may be no more gracious. Thus if the unexploited Arctic is a fine spot, there appears no scheme by which it may be utilized. Nevertheless, it is hoped that Amundsen may make the journey thither and back, for mortal curiosity is insatiable, and the "will to conquer" furnishes a mighty impulse.

THE STERN HAND

Indications that the executives of the railroads and the executives of the unions are trying to settle the strike, are meager. Each set is seeking to bolster up its own cause. Nothing permanent is being proposed. The idea seems to be to reach some arrangement to "get by" the present crisis, each side continuing preparations for the next crisis, hoping then for greater advantage.

As often stated, one great objection to settling anything by strike is that it fails to take the public into consideration. The public is getting tired of this treatment. It foots the bills. In the long run, it is the public that pays the wages and the dividends. Yet the public has no standing. It receives exactly the consideration that a bewildered hen squawking on the highway receives from a reckless automobilist. However, the public is not a bewildered hen. It is a large and powerful entity.

The widespread effort to show that in the controversy sympathy is all on one side, is futile. Anger is stirred when the public is denied the right to transact its legitimate business. Naturally it is directed at the visible cause of the tie-up, and this happens to be the strikers. The public is not so unreasonable as to deny that the strikers have reasons for resentment. He is able to put forth good arguments for his demands. His side is as likely to show desire to be fair as is the other. But as leaders in both camps are blessed with the power of thinking, it is plain that they ought to think. Were they to do this they would realize that the public condemns them all, and looking at the opposing camps, wishes a plague upon both sufficiently drastic to arouse the warring executives to realization that they can't use the whole country as a battlefield indefinitely.

MILLIONS FOR ART

The county of Los Angeles plans to expend $3,000,000 in construction of a large museum devoted to art, history and science. Already it has done much in these several fields. It has buildings, and in them collections that would be creditable to a far older community. But the present accommodations are not sufficient. They do not meet the material needs, and they are not in keeping with the temper of the region.

Often the charge is made that Americans everywhere are so dedicated to commercial pursuits that they neglect the finer things of life. The charge is no nearer true concerning Americans than of other people. It is not true as to this section, but yesterday the lure of the Argonauts, an old land, and yet a new; rich but raw, its potentialities yet to be wrought into the visible aspect of civilization.

The county museums will be in reality a part of the educational system. They will stimulate research; become a record and a prophecy. They will promote familiarity with the past, be an index of accomplishment, an incentive to the student. Their certain tendency will be to lift the people to a higher plane of understanding. They are formulated from the common desire, and respond to a necessity.

It is natural to feel an interest in the expansion and development of a commonwealth, or any portion of it. Thus there is a pride because of the great structures erected for business, in the countless homes arising to shelter a growing population. These things bespeak substantial prosperity. Such institutions cater to the spirit of art, or of absolute knowledge, show that not all energy is being consumed in gainful tasks.

Labor is the mother of luck.

Many a man who has a great future ahead of him is unable to catch up with it.

Labor and Democracy

By DR. FRANK CRANE

William L. Huggins, the presiding judge of the Kansas court of industrial relations, has just gotten out a book called "Labor and Democracy."

It is a volume that ought to be widely read by the people of the United States.

Kansas is making an honest and an intelligent effort to solve the industrial problem in the only way that it can ever be solved, which is by the machinery of democratic government.

Whether the Kansas method is perfect or not, it is at least a whole lot better than any other method that has so far been brought forward.

Judge Huggins sticks close to common sense and to fundamentals. He reminds us that the very foundation of the principle of democracy is the rule of the majority and the willing submission of the minority to that rule. The root cause of most of the industrial trouble is that the rule of the majority as expressed in government is being constantly challenged.

There is a widespread belief that big business concerns take advantage of economic conditions to prey upon the general public by all sorts of trickery and in violation of the will of the majority as expressed in the laws.

On the other hand, the belief is prevalent that labor organizations claim the right and exercise the power to prey upon the general public by demanding that only members of their union be employed in essential industries, by limiting the number of laborers through unionization, by increasing the wage, by shortening the hours, and by denying any except organized working men the right to participate in the business activities of the country.

Both of these movements are evil. It does no good to call them fine names or camouflage their purpose by technical terms.

"Economic pressure" has a harmless sound, but what it really means is war.

The methods employed in strikes and lockouts are the harshest upon the poor, the weak and the helpless. In fact, the ways of present industrial warfare are quite as despicable as the ways of the German junkers.

What we are up against in this war is the impotency of government.

The nation is now torn by warfare between employers and employees in the railroad and mining industries. And all we get from the government, that is supposed to keep the peace and act as umpire in an occasional threat to slap somebody on the wrist unless he behaves.

We adjudicate contracts and questions of property, marriage, and divorce, and even questions of life and death through our courts; why, in the name of sanity, cannot industrial disputes be adjudicated by the same means?

This is the question that Kansas is trying to answer and the question about which Mr. Huggins writes with clarity and conviction.

A. S. Smith: "Any error in clipping attached?" The clipping: "Under the auspices of the Australian Government another vast wireless station is to be erected near Sydney at a cost of more than $5,000,000, with plans for operation by the Amalgamated Wireless, an organization springing from the Marconi Wireless Telegraph company." Answer: The New Standard defines vast as follows: "Of such great extent or degree that the sense can not appreciate it all at once." Immense; boundless. This wireless station will be unusually large. Why spell government with a capital G? Corrected: Under the auspices of the Australian government another very large wireless station is to be erected near Sydney, its cost to be more than $5,000,000 and its operation to be conducted by the Amalgamated Wireless, an organization springing from the Marconi Wireless Telegraph company.

In vs. Into
Miss M. Strom: "What is the proper use of the words in and into. In school I was taught to use into when the meaning was to be surrounded by, but it is not quite clear to me and I think others would like to be helped, too, in speaking correct English." Answer: In denotes enclosure within; enveloped or restrained by; existence as a part of a group. There are many other uses of in, but the idea of at rest within holds universally in pure English. Into denotes motion toward together with entering; as, he went into the house. He went in the house is colloquial. However, come in is correct when there is no object of the preposition.

Yesterday's Error
There was no reason for Mr. Mathieson's capitalizing the following words yesterday: Raise, Rise and City Daffies. Correct: raise, rise and city daffies.

LISTENING POST

We learn things through adversity.
Possibly more, than through prosperity.
In normal functioning we take things for granted.
If the blood pulses through the arterial system as it should we think nothing of our dependence upon blood supply.

Why should not the circulatory system function properly?
That is what it is there for.
Surely enough.
The heart is there to attend to business as it should.
And our consciousness of the functioning of the heart and arteries and the blood stream in them is nil.

But when there is trouble.
Arterio sclerosis as the medical men say.
Hardening of the arteries.
When the heart muscle becomes degenerated.
When there is a thrombus.
Then we discover that health is dependent upon normal functioning.

We learn that all the time we have been thriving because of the normal functioning of a very complex machine with a lot of parts.
And that when there was disturbance there ensued a lot of trouble.
Just as with the industrial system.
That supplies blood to the arteries of commerce.

It functions pretty normally most of the time.
Iron is dug out of mines and coal out of other mines and lumber is gotten from the forests and the iron is made into steel with the coal and the lumber goes into ships and boards and before we know it we have steel and lumber and houses and motor cars and a lot of things.
All by the normal functioning of industry.

SONGS OF THE POETS

Jessie—By Thomas Edward Brown (1830-1897)

When Jessie comes with her soft breast,
And yields the golden keys,
Then it is as if God caressed
Twin babes upon His knees—
Twin babes that, each to other pressed,
Just feel the Father's arms, wherewith they both are blessed.

But when I think if we must part,
And all this personal dream be fled—
O then my heart, O then my useless heart,
Would God that thou were dead.
A clod insensible to joys and ills—
A stone remote in some bleak gully of the hills.

WILD HORSES

By JOHN BRECK

You know how it is to be simply bursting with a question. Then you'll know how I felt after traveling twenty-eight miles with one large, insistent question on my mind. When the first man I saw to ask it of went careening off after a yearling steer. He galloped along a hill as steep as a leaning tree, strewn with rough-edged rock and boulders, and along the rim of a cliff where his little bay horse seemed skipping like a bird among the tops of the pines that pricked about it. One misstep and he sure would have needed wings. He leaped a fallen pine and the stones he dislodged from his blind landing on the far side rattled awesomely into the cleft below them. Yet his rider never drew rein; he left the going to the horse, bright-eyed, prick-eared, and keen as a terrier while the chase was on. But when the bawling red-skin was thrown and branded the bay came back to the wagon-trail with a drooping head, as if disappointed the fun was over so soon.

"That fellow didn't give us a run for our money," he seemed to reflect. "I wish Lon had hit on a real one." But I certainly wouldn't have laid a nickel on him while he was in action.
"Want to see a wild horse?" grinned Lon, when he was at leisure to answer my question. "Then take your look. 'Cause this here is one. I caught him when he was a two-year-old. No, I didn't crease him. I just put salt in a corral and penned him day in day out, to make sure of him. But he was worth it, wasn't he?"
I allowed he was. He was a rough little rat, but round and compact, with legs of steel and hoofs of flint and the wise air that always appeals to a horseman. He hadn't lost his self-respect.

"Nope, he hasn't," Lon agreed. "But it seems a shame to break 'em, all the same. They never carry their heads so high and their tails so proud as they did before they knew any one could master 'em. They're a handsome sight, I tell you, pinto, blue roan, sorrel, clay-bank, buckskin, cream—and color you can see among the rocks. But not many blacks among 'em. There's about two thousand running out among the cedars and down over the rim. But the rangers are going to round 'em up and shoot 'em off. Feed's been a bit short these last few years. I guess some guy got to figuring up how much it was costing to keep 'em."
So the wild horse has got to go. He has committed the same crime as the vanished buffalo—eaten pasture, the cowmen want. So the same fate awaits him. We will mourn our loss after he is gone. Will it atone that we are annually saving the price of a really high-class automobile?

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

AN ABORTIVE EFFORT
[Hartford Times]

It is difficult to believe that there are any considerable number of people who are convinced that any state in the Union can enact a law or so amend its constitution to permit the sale of liquor containing any greater alcoholic content than the Volstead act provides. Yet 238,022 residents of Ohio have signed a petition filed with their secretary of state asking for the submission to the voters at the November election of a wine and beer amendment to the state constitution.

Any such effort is bound to be wholly abortive. A state might as well try to amend its constitution so as to re-establish slavery, or deprive negroes of the ballot or to disfranchise women, as to attempt legislation under which wines and beers with an alcoholic content greater than one-half of one per cent can be sold. The Massachusetts legislature entertained the opinion that it could be done, but it did not take long to correct its mistaken impression.

The eighteenth amendment gave congress the right to pass legislation to enforce the amendment. The Volstead act is the expression of that authority. Until the act is modified in a manner that will pass the scrutiny of the supreme court of the United States, using the eighteenth amendment as a balance for weighing laws, it will be a waste of time for

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

Human beings, with the outward appearance of intelligence, continue asking each perspiring friend "Is it hot enough for you?" Why will they do this stupid and irritating thing? What is the precise difference between one who does it and an idiot?

Residents of this section will admit that the temperature has been high. They admit that it has produced a state that has seemed to them to be one of discomfort. They are exceedingly glad that they have, at the worst, escaped such a visitation as is indicated by the "heated term" of other sections. Here there is no such term. When heat comes upon this region, it tarries but briefly, and sinks with the sun, so that a night of rest is assured.

But during the height of a warm spasm there is general consciousness of prevailing conditions. It will be at the climax of such a spasm that the fool friend issues, through a sweaty face, the perturbing, irrelevant, impertinent and indecent query mentioned.

Naturally there is difficulty in meeting such interrogatory in courteous fashion. It implies that the one addressed is a moron, and gives absolute assurance that the one speaking is several degrees worse. Yet there is hesitancy in bawling forth the plain truth that the querist ought to be kicked hard enough to jar the lunacy out of his system.

Of course it is "hot enough" for most people when it is too hot to do anything but be aware that it is too hot.

But it is not hot enough for the questioner. Not by a whole lot. Perhaps there is a place with temperature suited to one guilty of such banal drool. Such a place has been described in glowing detail. Let him hasten thither and good riddance!

A lady writes from Venice to correct the statement that there is no Anek Jans estate. She says that there not only is such an estate, but that she is a direct heir.

The lady has the best wishes of this department. When she gets the estate, if she will set it up on the bluffs somewhere along the Santa Monica shore, people will come a long way "for to admire and for to see."

It is hardly possible to read a daily paper without observing some account of crime or tragedy due to the drug habit. In fact, this habit probably is the explanation of a large proportion of unlawful deeds of violence.

Recently a man just arrested for burglary died in the county jail. Investigation proved him to have been a drug addict. The poison such wretches think they must have is very costly now. They are willing to steal or to kill in order to procure it.

Frequent also are stories of the arrest of dope peddlers. These creatures form a most contemptible and dangerous type of degenerates. They never are adequately punished. They could not be adequately punished under a statute that provides for their imprisonment for a term shorter than life.

One Smith, formerly banker, may have been flattered by the desire of two states to get possession of him. After argument, Oklahoma won over Arizona. There are said to be several other states ready to welcome Smith, and provide him with room, board and a distinctive suit.

It seems, according to averments, that Smith would get hold of a bank and wreck it so completely that nothing but the building remained for the receiver. Such conduct is much out of favor. There seems to be no safe place of retreat for the banker so subject to moral lapses.

A young man at Long Beach was in search of work. Two volunteers said they would take him to a job. Watching their opportunity they slugged him and robbed him of $22, which was his total capital.

The millenium is a long way off when such creatures as these thieves ply their vocations every day.

An ex-pugilist best known by his ring title of McCoy, recently applied for a marriage license in this county, and was refused. His name already had appeared on eight such licenses. He has, probably, the longest list of ex-wives ever achieved by process of law.

The reason the document was withheld was that the woman who is supposed to aspire to be No. 9 was not present as required. If she will take a tip she will continue to be not present.

McCoy's conduct has been a shameful abuse of the institution of marriage. Evidently the responsibilities of a husband have no meaning to him. It is a pity there is not some way to take out a permanent injunction to curb his mania.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

I have a most irritating young friend. He is too confounded cocky and assured. He goes around with his shoes polished and his collar bright and his clothes pressed if he hasn't a nickel in his jeans. He isn't an intellectual giant—not by several thyroid processes—but he never has any difficulty in getting a job.

"I sold my shotgun last night," he told me the other day. "Because I needed the money." I was down to my last jitey and the dear ash-barrel.

"What's become of your job?" I barked at him.

"It blew," said he, cheerily. "Gone, Flooie, I have no more occupation than a hermit rabbit on a perfectly barren isle."

I felt badly about it. These are hard times, as the sounding boards of distress keep on telling us; and the immigration from Europe has dropped off, which is an indication that there are no jobs left; and the exchange situation is awful, especially since we quit loaning money to Europe; and the fish aren't biting. I told him I would loan him enough money to keep him from starving perfectly to death. But I made this confession in a tone that dared him to try to borrow.

"Don't worry," said he, cheerily. "I'll get another job."

So he gloomed at him. It was my duty to show him that he had no chance to get another job and that he would probably die in the streets, and quote a lot of sour statistics at him and generally make him as unhappy as possible. But he quit me before I got started. He said that I made him tired. This morning he came in to say that he had found a job, and that it was better than the one he lost.

"I knew I could," he said. "I never have any difficulty in finding a job."

So far as I can see the only reason why he finds jobs so easily, aside from the fact that he goes looking in earnest when he conceals to look at all, is that he is cheery and snappy and bright-eyed. He is about a No. 4 on a narrow last intellectually, and he is by no means a horse for work, as shown by the ease with which he loses jobs. But he can get seven jobs to one that falls to an earnest, sincere, bad-eyed young person who seems to be totting about four dependent orphans on his shoulders.

That's a dirty dig at human nature, I know. Yet if I needed a young man I had rather hire some one who is not bowed down beneath a load of sorrow. Even if the superficially cheery guy was cheating a little.

EDISON OFFERS
BILL MAKING
PLAN

Finds Efficiency in Drafting of Legislation Is Very Low

WASHINGTON, September 1.—Thomas A. Edison, inventive genius of the country, has offered a "scientific bill-making plan" to congress.

This was learned by the publication of Edison's testimony on the Muscle Shoals, Ala., power and nitrate projects, before the senate agricultural committee.

"I worked in Washington during the war," the aged inventor told the committee. "I found out after a while that a lot of those fellows that were running the details of this government were false; they were not the real thing; they were counterfeits."

"I am surprised that you don't draw your bills differently," he continued. "Draw up a skeleton of your bill and specify the initial thing you have to do, and when that is done you will find out what the first step costs."

"Now go ahead and continue it on by supplement, so you will know the progress of all your legislation, and make them show up between each supplement. You would have saved five or six billion dollars here and you would not have got a lot of these inefficient people."

"It comes in sections and each time they come for more money you make an amendment to the act. Let them have it, but they have to show up."

"Under the war administration nobody had to show up. You will have it showed up by and by."

"You should always pass a bill that contains just the rudiments of the entire bill," Edison urged, "then you have the first start, the instrumentalities you start with to make that thing function, and spend several million dollars."

"When you have got through the first stage let them come to congress and get the additional legislation to go ahead a little further, and when you have got through an examination of what has been done you will know if there is anything rotten in that, because you will see how all the money has been spent."

"But the way you do it now you make the bill and quit and never hear anything, and you try to get some information and you don't get any at all. They double-cross you all the time."

'FORGET ME NOT'
DAY SET FOR NOV. 4

To Mark the Raising of Funds for Disabled Veterans

CINCINNATI, Sept. 1.—America's "Forget-me-not day" for the wounded and disabled American veterans of the great war, will take place on Saturday, November 4, according to announcement made by C. Hamilton Cook, national commander of the Disabled American Veterans of the World war. This national organization of 100,000 members will direct the work of raising funds through the sale of forget-me-nots everywhere in the United States, on Saturday, November 4, the proceeds of which will be used for all disabled and wounded veterans of the great war, in legislation, relief work, employment, rehabilitation, clubhouses, summer camps and numerous other activities intended for the welfare of the men who made great sacrifices during the World war.

Citizens' committees are to be named in cities and towns throughout the country. Women's clubs, war workers and the ladies who took part in the home activities that contributed so much to the comfort of the men "over there," will be asked to take part in the "Forget-me-not day" movement, by active participation in the making of the flowers that are to be sold, and again, on November 4, taking part in the sales of the favors. Wounded and disabled American veterans, patients in hospitals throughout the land, are already engaged in making the forget-me-not favors, from cloth or paper, so that the number to be disposed of will mount into the millions, and all America will engage in the great, national movement for the betterment and comfort of the disabled "buddies."

In a proclamation just issued from national headquarters of the Disabled American Veterans here, Captain Cook stated that every city and town in the United States will be requested to enter into the "Forget-me-not day" project on an active scale, so that the response from the nation on November 4 will be a unanimous one, indicative of the feeling and sentiment existing everywhere in the country for the men who gave up so much during the World war.

Foley's Friendly Fancies

THE DECORATIONS

JAMES W. FOLEY

The arm upon the shoulder and the warm and friendly hand, The many things unspoken that the heart can understand. The cheer in time of trouble and the word of friendliness, Oh, these are life's best treasures that are offered us, I guess.

And what are years and honors, be they glorious and grand,

With no arm upon the shoulder and no warm and friendly hand?

The friend who walks beside me, be the weather good or ill.

The spirit that uplifts me when I'm climbing up the hill.

Say what are robes and coronets and all the pomp of kings

Besides the simple gladness of these friendly human things?

And what are all the riches that the vaults and coffers fill,

If no friend shall walk beside me be the weather good or ill?

The star upon the shoulder and the medal on the breast, And the gleaming sword and jewel at a sovereign's behest, They are worthy things and proper, as I would not once deny, But no star gleams with the gladness of my old friend's loving eye. When his arm upon my shoulder, and no decoration planned, Fills my breast with warmth and gladness as that warm and friendly hand.

WOMAN TO DECIDE IN "CUPID'S COURT"

Mrs. Helen Long Rodgers, wife of a prominent business man of Hammon, N. J., will cast the deciding vote in the Lovers' Cooperative union, established there. The court consists of three men and three women, one of each of whom is married, one single and one a widow or widower. The union was formed to pick the proper men for the proper women, or vice versa. Questionnaires are supplied to those applying for mates, and through this medium marriages are arranged. Should two suitors ask for the same woman it is for the judges of the court to decide who gets her. Already 2000 prospective husbands and wives have been enrolled. Thomas B. Delker, secretary of the court, is shown with the first batch of letters presented to the judges. Councilman J. Louis O'Donnell is the married man of the court.

BANKERS TO GATHER FOR CONFERENCE

DEL MONTE, Cal., Sept. 1.—Plans are being perfected for the entertainment of the members of the "Investment Bankers' association of America," who meet in convention here October 9 to 12.

A large and varied series of amusements, sports, tours, and social events has been arranged, which will occupy the time of the men who each year handle a billion and a half dollars in investments, from the time they enter California until they leave.

The bankers' special trains will begin entering the state October 3. Following the close of the convention here, delegates will be entertained on October 13 by the San Francisco delegation in that city.

Warm Summer Nights Make Programs of Particular Delight

These warm summer nights are perfect for the Hollywood Bowl concerts, which are growing in popularity each week. Thousands of people go out to the natural amphitheater at the intersection of Cahuenga and Highland avenues, and listen to the wonderful summer symphony, directed by Alfred Hertz. A wonderful concert room out of doors, where the tiniest whisper could be heard far up on the mountainside.

Marion Fairfax has so cleverly said of the Bowl concerts, "where could such a musical bargain be found." Four times a week these splendid orchestral concerts are given, and this is the eighth big week of a ten weeks' season. Already 120,000 people have listened to these great orchestral concerts.

The music for Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon is of the widest possible appeal. There is "Finlandia" of Sibelius for the lovers of folksongs of the north, and two movements from the great Tchaikovsky fourth symphony for those who would have the supreme pleasure of hearing a master-tone-builder like Alfred Hertz in a magnificent work, and for those to whom a violin solo is a beautiful experience. Leon Goldwasser, a violin virtuoso from one of the best orchestras in Europe; the Petrograd orchestra, and a pupil of the famous violin pedagogue, Leopold Auer, will play the brilliant Vieuxtemps concert.

On Sunday afternoon at five o'clock, just as the sun is departing over the hills, the concert begins with a Chopin polonaise. The "Tramerie" and well known Melody in F" by Rubinstein are on this concert list also, and the Rubinstein melody is to be played by Ilva Bronson, a cellist whose beautiful tone carries to the farthestmost parts of the surrounding hills.

Rupert Hughes says of these concerts: "The one way to enjoy the best in music is to hear a lot of it," and a better opportunity than is afforded by these noble, self-sacrificing people, who are making the Bowl concerts possible, will rarely be found. To sit in the vast cool mountain canyon up in the Hollywood hills and listen to perfect orchestra music, directed by a world famous conductor, while the stars watch and the clouds slip silently by, is an experience long to be treasured and to quote Mr. Hughes again, "Athens never had a more noble altar for beauty."

U. S. TO AID IN STATE ROAD WORK

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Surplus war materials valued at $139,773,986 was delivered to the states for use in road construction up to July 1, reports the bureau of public roads, United States department of agriculture. The material, which consisted of all sorts of supplies and equipment suitable for road building for which the war department had no further need, was distributed on the same basis as monetary federal aid.

In value of material delivered, Texas and New York lead with nearly $8,000,000 worth of material, and every state with the exception of the smaller ones received supplies valued at over a million dollars.

This material has been of great value in road construction, and there is hardly a county in the United States in which some of it has not been used.

Probably of greatest value has been the 29,325 motor vehicles distributed, consisting of 24,752 trucks and 4,573 automobiles, and in addition a large number of tractors.
